

About Radius

Radius welcomes people seeking to explore spiritual, social and ethical themes through drama.

As a forum for discussion, it encourages a relationship between theatre and faith within contemporary culture.

Founded in 1929, Radius is the Religious Drama Society of Great Britain. It is an ecumenical charity which promotes the performance and study of religious drama, defined as "drama which illuminates the human condition". Most, but not all, members are Christians.

the Rt Revd and Rt Hon Lord Williams of Oystermouth

A seat for the lecture is automatically reserved for those attending the full Radius drama residential weekend.

If you are non-residential or only wish to attend the Rowan Williams lecture, then please go to https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/d/uk/united-kingdom--thirsk/rowan/ to reserve your free place.

In addition to opportunities to meet up with friends old and new, the weekend will include drama workshops based on the classic Radius collection Sacred Spaces, led by Gerard Crawshaw.

Sacred Spaces is a volume of nine short dramas each of which stands on its own, but performed together they add up to a one-act play which provides a sequence of snapshots in the life of a church community during the course of a year.

Residential rate: £195

includes ensuite accommodation, full board from evening meal on Friday to lunch on Sunday, and free admission to the lecture.

£10 reduction per person if sharing a room or occupying a non-ensuite single room.

Non-residential rates

£35 per day including lunch or £45 per day with lunch & dinner

Please note that both residential and non-residential places are limited so early booking is advised.

£50 deposit for the residential, or £20 for non-residential attendees.
