

Improving the early detection of cancer through e-learning for primary care

Free online cancer education programme for primary care professionals across England

GatewayC is a high-quality, evidence-based online cancer education programme developed for healthcare professionals across England, but mainly those working in primary care. The programme includes access to over 20 e-learning courses, live broadcast and recorded webinars, blogs and bite-sized cancer education.

Our educational content is designed to support clinical decision-making, early detection of cancer, and the improved management, care and support of people affected by cancer.

All courses and webinars are produced in collaboration with GP Leads, specialists in education, patients affected by cancer and cancer charities, including Cancer Research UK and Macmillan Cancer Support.

The programme is fully funded by Health Education England and is hosted by The Christie NHS Foundation Trust.

“GatewayC is an excellent resource for patient-facing primary care staff to address the ‘early diagnosis of cancer’ agenda.”
