

Oregon's High Ground.

Oregon Natives, Starting Small

In 2007, Doug and Dionne Irvine along with Doug's sister Kelly and her husband Duane Roberts began planting Pinot Noir & Chardonnay on a pristine vineyard site tucked into the foothills of the Cascades and nestled against the slopes of Mt. Ashland, the highest mountain in the Siskiyou Mountain Range.

Keeping our Cool

In an otherwise warm winegrowing region in Southern Oregon, Irvine & Roberts focuses on the cool climate varietals that made Oregon famous: Pinot Noir & Chardonnay.

Oregon Elevated.

Our spectacular view at Irvine & Roberts is perched at 2100' above sea level, with gentle afternoon winds that carry heat away from our hills during the peak of our growing season, placing us squarely on the cutting edge of Oregon viticulture.

More Discoveries

Expansion of the vineyard at Irvine & Roberts has led to explorations of unique, site-driven, proprietary selections of Pinot Noir & Pinot Meunier and Rosé.

The Catalyst

Our winemaker, Vince Vidrine, came to us with a rich experience in making World Class Pinot Noir and Chardonnay with a proven track record at Willamette Valley heavy hitters Domaine Serene and Brittan Vineyards. He is on a mission to master the potential of a site with so many unique characteristics.

A Category of One

With our singular story, location and focus, Irvine and Roberts is a category of one in Oregon's Rogue Valley.
